THE JAMES BEARD FOUNDATION, the most celebrated culinary organization in this nation, renowned for its dedication to the educational initiatives, development and recognition of the culinary arts, annually awards upcoming new chefs with what is deemed the "Oscars" of the industry. Any honoree of the James Beard Foundation Award is proud to boast the prestige of this culinary recognition. Combined with the efforts of the World Equestrian Games and the Kentucky Horse Park Foundation, this proves to be an elite experience that permits only an intimate gathering of up to 80 guests each night to enjoy the chef's epicurean delights in the center of the Kentucky Horse Parks Historic Farmhouse, setting a stage similar in experience to that of dining in the James Beard House in New York City.

Together, they will showcase a fusion of foods and experiences of not just international flare but local and regional heritage as well. This program partnered with The Kentucky Proud Program, funded by the Kentucky Agricultural Development Fund and administered by the Kentucky Department of Agriculture, representing local farms, brewers, distillers, wine makers, growers and cheese-makers to name a few, Kentucky Proud supports sustainability within their beautiful state and represents an array of products distributed locally, throughout the United States and across the globe.
